Best, Two Out of Three

Our high school sports coverage generally doesn't include institutions such as Marquette Manor Baptist Academy in Downers Grove because they're not affiliated with the Illinois High School Association.

Regardless, the Minutemen do a bang-up job within their own realm, the Illinois Association of Christian Schools. The school has won 13 IACS titles in boys soccer, 6 in girls volleyball and 1 in boys basketball.

In fact on Feb. 24 Marquette Manor's girls basketball team won its second IACS Championship in three seasons. The Minutemen (20-1) beat Rockford's North Love Christian School 37-18 behind senior forward Stephanie Woods' 19 points and 8 rebounds, and 5 assists from Joanna Schlagel of Downers Grove. The title game was held at Berean Baptist School in Rockford.

"The defensive side was probably the strength, team defense," said athletic director Matt Scalzitti, a 1998 graduate of Marquette Manor, which for years hosted the annual "Centurion Classic," a boys basketball all-star game between teams of suburban and Chicago players.

Woods, Schlagel, senior guard Ashley Henkle of Downers Grove and senior forward Hannah Schuster of Willowbrook also played on the 2015-16 Marquette Manor team that went 19-3 and won the IACS title over Romeoville Christian.

The girls program wasn't always a dynasty, or even a program. It was renewed seven years ago, Scalzitti said, and in the first two seasons the varsity team won two games. In the five years since, Schlagel's older brother Paul has coached Marquette Manor to a record of 72-26.

The reasons are the same as in the IHSA.

"It's personnel; it's good coaching," Scalzitti said.
